You have the option to take part in just one of the two activities enlisted below, or you could also enjoy both activities in the same afternoon.

Banana boat (20 min.)

The Banana Boat is a great way for a group to have an exciting, speed-induced ride off Malagueta's beautiful beach!

The banana consists of an inflatable banana-shaped mat that usually houses 7 people and is thrown by a motorboat. It is a very fun activity to do individually but you will have the most fun when doing it in group. If you can fill the available places with a group of friends or family you will be guaranteed to have more intensity, speed and – mostly – a lot of fun!

Malaga Wake offers several levels and speeds suitable for all audiences. Embark on a new challenge and improve your banana style with the help of the instructors and monitors at Malaga Wake Academy.

For those of you who would like to experience an equally entertaining but slightly more intensive water experience, we could highly recommend you totake part in big sup.

You can rent a paddle board, for a group up to 8/10 pax, and start testing it out on the water all by yourself. Those of you, however, who prefer to have some assistance, can be helped by one of Malaga Wake's team members to learn the basics of board paddling before being sent out to sea.

This amazing activity is ideal as a team building exercise. Given that everyone has to work together it will automatically improve the mutual bond between the team members and ensure for it to be an unforgettable experience!

If you want to have an overall experience, enjoying both the exciting ride on a banana boat and the intensive trip on an oversized paddle boat, we could highly recommend you to take part in both activities and enjoy a double shot of fun and excitement at Malaga beach!

The Royal Bullring

Are you interested in one of Andalucía's oldest traditions and one of the main cornerstones of the Spanish culture, the famous bullfighting? If so, then you should definitely visit the "Malagueta" Bullring, situated at Calle Reading 8 (entrance gate 8), which is perhaps one of the most important artistic monuments of Malaga.

The bullring was built by Joaquin Roucoba in neo-mudejar style and inaugurated on 11th

June 1876. It has a capacity of 10,500 people, containing horse tables, bullfighters' rooms, an infirmary and a chapel. The entire arena has a diameter of 52 meters. Given its dimensions, services and (inter)national importance it is considered a first-category bullring, such as the bullrings of Cordoba and Seville.

Each year during bullfighting season, a lot of important and high-class events take place here. La Malagueta hosts top-class events during the Spanish-style bullfighting season, and its festivities include two bullfights during the Holy Week, the most important one being the Corrida Picassiana (in honour of Pablo Picasso).

During your visit, you can experience firsthand the intense emotions that are felt by a bullfighter, or a member of the public during such a bloody bullfight. This thrilling and unique experience will certainly leave you in awe in front of one of Spain's most important cultural events.

You can visit the bullring on the following dates:

- From Monday to Friday from 10:00 to 14:00
- Bullfighting season runs from April to September

Visit to Ecomuseo Astilleros Nereo + workshops

On the beach of Pedregalejo you can find the last traditional shipyard of Malaga, a historical shipyard where boats are built and repaired in a handcrafted manner, such as the Seine boat. In doing so, they are putting in value the Riverside Carpentry that was officially declared as a good of intangible cultural interest. In turn, there is also a living museum where the historical-maritime and ethnographic heritage of the city, such as the carpentry of Ribera, the Phoenician legacy and the seafaring traditions of Malaga are being publicly displayed to underline their importance and value.

The museum is currently carrying out two historical projects, being the reconstruction of Brig Galvez town (18th century A.D.) and the Phoenician wreck Mazarrón II (7th century B.C.).

Everyone can come here to explore and enjoy a unique experience at this wonderful site, given that Ecomuseum offers unique didactic experiences through guided tours, activities and workshops that may be adapted to different academic levels. Through their program, they offer students the opportunity to:

- Get to know the historical facilities and the traditional area of the only shipyards of Ribera that remains in Malaga as well as giving the visitors an insight into the historical archives.
- Know more about the ways of life and the cultural identity of Malaga as a maritime and Mediterranean city.
- Explore the museum collection of tools, objects and models linked to the craft of carpentry.
- Witness first-hand the process of building a seine boat and other traditional and historical boats.

The visit to the Ecomuseum will be combined with a workshop. Our participants will be able to choose between two different workshops which will last approximately 2 hours.

Workshop “Calafateado Fenicio”

Come and take part in this once-in-a-lifetime experience at a special location where you will learn some unique knot-tying techniques while working with some of the best professionals out there.

The students will start to knot and tie ropes in a traditional way, before they learn how to caulk a boat. What is caulking? It is a Phoenician technique for the construction of boats that is still used today in order to prevent water from coming into the boat, and possibly sinking it.

The workshop is suitable for all ages, except for infants.

Workshop “Remo y Vela Latina”

During this entertaining rowing and sailing workshop you will be able to learn how to properly paddle a boat while being on land, which can be very useful if you would ever want to go on a rowing or peddle trip with your friends or family in the future. The students will be taught the difficult techniques that are required for sailing with a Latin sail, which is the traditional Mediterranean sail per excellence.

Suitable for children from the second cycle of primary school, or from secondary school.

They will receive 1 hour of online or one-to-one guiding tuition, the aim of which will be to help the trainees solve their problems and doubts as well as give them some inspiration and ideas if they get stuck. Trip to Seville

Seville is one of the most spectacular cities in Spain. It is the artistic and cultural capital of Andalusia and, with its 1.5 million inhabitants, the fourth largest city in Spain.

The city itself is a historical and architectural masterpiece. There are many unique buildings and splendid gardens where one can see orange and lemon trees in blossom and the air is filled with the smell of flowers. Gently flowing fountains, symmetrical patios and elaborate decorations are a living legacy of the Islamic culture of Al-Andalus. The enormous cathedral, its former minaret – Giralda, the Royal Alcazar, the General Archive of the Indies are all listed on the UNESCO World Heritage List. Together with the Tobacco Factory, Plaza de Toros de la Maestranza – one of the oldest bullfighting rings in Spain, the Golden Tower and many, many other monument they delight and amaze visitors from all over the world.

The beautiful Plaza de España was the setting for several famous films such as "Star Wars" and "Dictator". The creators of the popular series "Game of Thrones" also appreciated the charm of this magnificent city and showed the beauty of the castle and its gardens during scenes settled in the fictional Dorne.

Seville is the birthplace of flamenco, and its connection with this music and culture quickly becomes evident to those who visit the city. A grand flamenco festival is hosted in Seville every year. Women in flouncy dresses with flowers in their hair and richly clad horsemen roam the city's streets, bringing joy to everyone.

In the 10th century, Cordoba was considered one of the most densely-populated cities in the world as well as one of Europe's biggest education centres with its many libraries, medical schools and universities. In addition, Córdoba became the intellectual centre of prejudice-free Europe as the city's population was primarily made up of Muslims, while also housing some Christian and Jewish minorities.

The places that can't miss during your trip to Cordoba are the following: the great mosque, later transformed into a Catholic cathedral; the Alcázar of Christian Kings; the Muslims and the Calahorra Tower bathroom (inside the Museum of three cultures) are also worth a visit.

Next to the Alhambra - a complex of renowned world palaces and fortresses of the Nasrid dynasty - and the historic Moorish Albaicín (both designated as world heritage by UNESCO), Granada boasts a Renaissance cathedral dating back to the 16th century as well as many other architectural monuments with great splendour.

Nerja, located on the eastern end of the Costa del Sol, has all the ingredients to charm any visitor. Its annual average temperature, around twenty degrees Celsius, the beautiful mountain landscape of Málaga's 'La Axarquía' region, as well as a rugged coastline of beaches and cliffs, are just some of its attractions. Nerja has more than its fair share of fabulous beaches, Burriana and Torrecilla being the main ones, boasting 16 kilometres of beaches with powdery sand and sparkling clear and calm water, and a splattering of small coves. The old quarter of the town is still virtually unchanged with narrow, winding streets, whitewashed houses with wrought iron terraces overflowing with geraniums, on which a canary can sometimes be heard singing.

Visitors can hire a horse-drawn carriage and explore the town's most interesting streets and attractions. When in Nerja, it is essential to visit the 17th Century Church of El Salvador, the Gardens of Capistrano Playa and the Balcony of Europe (Balcón de Europa).

One of the jewels of the Costa del Sol is the beautiful little village of Mijas, nestled comfortably on the mountainside at 428 metres above sea level; it is a superb choice for both a summer holiday and full time living. As you wander up and down the narrow, cobbled streets of this Andalusian town, you will understand what has attracted foreigners to settle here over the years. Many artists and writers have made it their home, enjoying the benefits of an excellent all year-round climate, without being part of the busier, more commercial coastal towns just 7 kilometres down the mountain side. Trip to Ronda

Despite being the Andalusian city that has exceeded most in growth –overhauling Córdoba and becoming one of the three major attractions in Andalusia, together with Sevilla and Granada at the beginning of the 21st century - Ronda retains much of its historic charm, especially its old town.

The most striking feature of Ronda is the Puente Nuevo, which crosses a gorge over 300 feet deep. Can you guess when this 'new bridge' was built? In 1793. This should give visitors an idea of how unaltered and well-preserved the city has remained over the past decades (and even centuries). The city is also known as the birthplace of modern bullfighting. The local bullfighting ring is only used once a year, during the Feria Goyesca, but there is a museum where you can learn more about the history of this traditional sport (which many regard as controversial).

Marbella is deservedly one of the Costa del Sol's prime destinations. Its excellent climate, beaches, natural surroundings and its major sport complexes are just some of the countless

It houses an exclusive leisure area inside the excellent facilities of its marina. But Marbella is also a paradise for golf lovers. The historic part of town, sitting on a beautiful bay, shelters lovely corners filled with a typically Andalusian flavour, apart from that it is made up of whitewashed houses and rows of orange trees adorning the streets and squares.
